

Language, Culture, and Applied Anthropology

Kevin Inglesby, PhD Candidate Applied Anthropology & Cultural Heritage and adjunct professor at the University of Montana

Coming from the University of Montana, Kevin will be speaking on some methods and pathways to assess the language of social justice, language revitalization, and cultural Placemaking as an economic and social strategy to engage our ever-evolving world.

It is Kevin's aim to convey the importance of language and culture as it relates to cultural heritage, social organization, and Placemaking as a strategy for cultural advancement.

Some of the topics to be covered include:

Strategies for language revitalization,
Community engagement frameworks, and
Networks that promote common goals.